Ozan Flood Control Plans 43% Complete

George Brown, Work Unit Conservator for Hempstead County with the Soil Conservation Service, was the principle speaker at the regular meeting of the Hope Rotary Club last week.

Mr. Brown told Rotarians that the Soil Conservation Service was in the process of establishing a water-shed program on the north fork of Ozan Creek in Northwest Hempstead County that would involve one-tenth of the area of the county. The total acres in this program would be approximately 47,000. The primary purpose of this program is flood control, according to Mr. Brown. He also stated that a 3 inch rain on the upper part of this area would normally flood 7,000 acres of good farm land in the Ozan Creek bottom areas but with the 10 dams and lakes planned, this flooding could be prevented.

With the planning some 43 per cent complete, it is estimated that the whole project will be ready for the approval, by land owners within the area, by November 1, 1964. Once approval is given by the owners, construction will get under way with the Federal Government providing construction money and the land owners providing the land for the dams and lakes. The lakes, once constructed, would revert back to the land owners to be used for water storage, recreation, and irrigation. Normal size of the lakes would be from 10 to 15 acres each, but during periods of excessive rainfall, they would cover from 100 to 150 acres. This additional amount of water would be allowed to enter the stream below in such amounts as to prevent flooding in the low areas until the lakes reached their normal stage. Maintenance of the dams and levees would be the responsibility of the land owners and would be under the direction of the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Brown introduced Charles Warren, a graduate of Hope High School this past spring, who told Rotarians of his attendance at the Solid and Water Conservation Workshop held recently at Arkansas Tech at Russellville. His trip to the Workshop was sponsored by the Hempstead County Board of Supervisors of the Soil Conservation Service.

Rotarian N. B. Coleman arranged the program and introduced Mr. Brown. Rotarian Bud Stewart of Nashville was a visitor.

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The body of a man tentatively identified as Roy J. Wright, 43, Texarkana bank vice president who was charged last week in connection with a $243,786 discrepancy in funds, was found in a car here today.

Vernon Harrington, agent in charge of the FBI office in Little Rock, said a hose had been attached to the exhaust and put through the window of the car to pour deadly carbon monoxide fumes inside the vehicle.

The car was rented from an agency at O'Hare National Airport, Chicago, at 11 a.m. Saturday according to rental papers found in the car, Searcy officers said.

Wright disappeared Friday after he was called to the bank to discuss the discrepancy in a state clearing account, the FBI said. He appeared briefly, then left, saying he was going to change clothes.

The body was found at 6:15 a.m. by Bill Spurlock, 23, of Searcy, a farm employe on his way to work. The car was parked in a roadside park off U.S. 67 south of the North-Central Arkansas city.

Harrington said Wright was tentatively identified from papers found on the body and a shaving kit, found in the car, which bore his name.

About $100 was found on the body.

Wright was charged Friday with making a false entry in the records of the State National Bank of Texarkana in connection with a discrepancy in the bank records in an account through which the State of Arkansas pays some of its checks.

Wright had been working for the bank for almost 25 years. Tactics of some organizations, he was married and had four children. His wife teaches at Texarkana College.

Bank officials announced Thursday that a discrepancy had been discovered and that an investigation was under way.

Profile on Hal Boyle, AP Columnist Whose 52 Years Shows Around Breadbasket

EDITORS NOTE — Richard Huttner, 16, a pupil at Horace Mann High School, N.Y., called on Hal Boyle as a class assignment to write a profile. His profile appeared in the Overseas Press Club bulletin.

By RICHARD HUTTNER
NEW YORK (AP) — I entered the tremendous rectangular room of The Associated Press. Everything was alive with action.

I approached a secretary, busy but attentive as I asked her the locale of Hal Boyle's desk.

"Over there," she said, and she pointed to the far right-hand corner of the office.

Boyle, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, and 200 pounds, looked like a miniature version of a professional football lineman; however, his 52 years clearly were beginning to show — especially in the breadbasket.

His thinning, brown hair, parted on the left side, receded slightly from his wide forehead, giving an extra fullness to his face. He had a broad, ruggedly handsome nose and soft, brown eyes.

He sat next to me on the same side of the desk, where I could observe his every move.

Temperatures to Be Mild

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arkansas will get generally mild temperatures through Tuesday, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today, with maximum daytime readings ranging from 85 to 95.

Maximum temperatures Sunday ranged from 82 at Harrison to 93 at Fort Smith. Overnight low readings ranged from 57 at Fayetteville to 72 at El Dorado.

No rain was reported during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Appointment Bill Is Backed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation said Saturday it backed a House bill which would remove state legislative apportionment cases from the jurisdiction of U.S. Supreme Court.

Sens. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., can be expected to support the bill when it reaches the Senate, the bureau announcement said.

The House passed a bill Wednesday to allow states to reapportion their legislatures if they do it in accordance with the U.S. Constitution.

The Supreme Court ruled recently that state legislatures must be apportioned according to population.

All four Arkansas representatives voted for the bill.

Burglars Outwit Alarm System

WASHINGTON (AP) — An extensive burglar alarm system and a steel door in the back failed to prevent burglars stealing nearly $50,000 in furs from a Connecticut Avenue store, the French Poodle.

The burglars broke into an office above the store, owned by Mrs. Alvin Epstein. They cut a hole through the ceiling of the shop, lowered themselves with a rope or rope ladder, and made away early Sunday with furs valued by the owner at nearly $50,000.

Mrs. Anne Barton, 34, of the Southside community near Batesville was killed early Sunday when she lost control of her car and it overturned off U.S. 167, about two miles south of Batesville. County authorities said a flat tire apparently caused Mrs. Barton to lose control of the car.

Mrs. Gurnell Burks, 45, of Benton was killed Saturday night when the pickup truck she was in collided head-on with another truck on the Sardis Road, seven miles northeast of Benton. Howard Burns, her husband, was driving the truck the victim was in; and Thurman Williams was driving the other truck.

Juanita Middleton, 20-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Middleton of near Wynne, was killed Saturday when a Missouri Pacific train struck her near her home. Authorities said she was apparently playing on the tracks.

Mrs. Florence Langley, 42, of Camden was killed early Saturday when she tried to remove a power line from the hood of her car. The line had been knocked down by lightning.

Four-year-old Randy Bowers was accidentally shot to death Saturday at his parents' home in the Nail community, 25 miles southwest of Jasper. Sheriff Guy Bennett said Randy's brother, Richard, 8, shot Randy, apparently as the boys were playing with a 12 gauge shotgun while their parents were away from home.

Extremism Hit, Rights Plank Is Soft

By EDMUND LEBRETON
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A Democratic party platform designed for broad party acceptance, even on civil rights and political extremism, gets its final polishing today.

It calls for fair and effective enforcement of the wide-ranging new Civil Rights Act, but does not recommend additional legislation. Northern supporters of the law and at least some Southerners indicated they could live with this formula.

Although much of the party statement still is officially secret, pending consideration by the full platform committee today, informants said the draft platform decries political extremism generally and also the naming the John Birch Society, the Communist party and the Ku Klux Klan.

The platform committee's executive panel, working late into the night, decided to avoid controversy on two other subjects simply by omitting them from the platform. These were the issues of legislative reapportionment and prayer in schools.

The full committee, which already has approved foreign affairs and national defense portions of the platform, was called into session to consider the final, domestic portion today. The convention has the last say, but committee approval almost certain.

Goldwater to Give Views on Issues

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, carrying his views on campaign issues to leaders of business and industry today after a word to the farmers: "Price support programs should be voluntary."

The Republican presidential nominee planned to fly to New York for a private reception and dinner with business men and industrial leaders.

A spokesman said Goldwater wanted to outline his stand on foreign and domestic issues, and answer businessmen's questions.

No guest list was announced. The afternoon reception is being sponsored by Percy Douglas, president of the Otis Elevator Co. Hosts for the dinner are George Champion, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank and Ralph Cordner, retired chairman of the General Electric Co.

Goldwater turned his attention to agriculture Sunday in a statement declaring the goal of the Republican party is "a free and prosperous American agriculture with a minimum of federal controls and interference."

"The Republican party is the farmers' party," Goldwater said.

"We will resist all efforts to make the farmer dependent, for his economic survival, upon either compensatory payments by the federal government or upon the whim of the secretary of agriculture."

"Price supports should be designed to help farmers achieve orderly marketing within the framework of our dynamic American market system. Price support programs should be voluntary and should be established for specific commodities in order to widen markets, ease production controls, and help achieve increased family income," Goldwater said.

Goldwater denounced the program for wheat farmers put into effect this year.

He said the Republicans would repeal what he called "the administration's wheat certificate 'bread tax' on consumers, so burdensome to low income families and overwhelmingly rejected by farmers."

"This program has become a nightmare under massive mismanagement of the Johnson-Freeman administration," Goldwater said, referring to the President and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

LBJ Roundup Opens Tonight, His Running Mate All That's Left

Two Disputes Could Break Out on Floor

By IRWIN FRANK

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mississippi Negroes said "no compromise" and Alabama's white delegates shouted "no loyalty pledge" as Democrats searched for answers to the hottest issues at their national convention.

Chances of keeping the Mississippi and Alabama disputes from bursting forth upon the floor of the convention when it opens tonight appeared slim. The threat of a walkout by some Southern delegations remained a possibility.

The credentials committee failed to decide Sunday whether the largely Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic delegation or the all-white regulars from that state should be seated. The committee resumes today its search for a solution it hopes will satisfy Southern states and Southern and Northern Negroes.

Dr. Aaron Henry, Negro chairman of the Freedom group from Clarksdale, Miss., said the group would not take a "back-of-the-bus" compromise.

Henry was backed by Dr. Martin Luther King who said "a natural reaction of Negro voters would be to go fishing election day" if the Freedom party is not seated. King heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Two civil rights organizations set up vigil in front of Convention Hall early today in support of the freedom delegation. The organizations were the Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Henry and King said they had the votes in the credentials committee needed to force the issue onto the floor of the convention if the committee fails to give seats and votes to the Freedom delegation. There has been speculation that the committee, in an effort to satisfy the Negroes, would give them seats on the floor but no voice and no vote.

Humphrey Is Leader in Speculation

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democrats began opening the curtain on their 1964 convention today as they moved to pledge fair enforcement of the Civil Rights Act and to denounce lawlessness on either side of the fight.

While the Platform Committee hammered out this plank, peacemakers worked backstage to cool off the most heated dispute.

The Credentials Committee sought to find some compromise that would satisfy, if not please, both Southern states and civil rights supporters in the row over seating the Mississippi delegation.

At issue is whether the convention will seat the regular Democratic delegation or the predominantly Negro group representing the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party.

President Johnson, his nomination to be little more than a formality Wednesday night, has been keeping the party guessing as to his choice for a running mate as he called signals from Washington shaping the platform and trying to ease North-South clashes.

But a spokesman for Mississippi Freedom Democratic party delegation, Washington lawyer Joseph Rauh Jr., claimed today he had enough votes to force a floor fight over the Mississippi question.

He reiterated at a news conference that the group would not accept a compromise proposal that the regular Mississippi delegation be seated and the Negro group be given a voteless and voiceless place on the convention floor.

Rauh said his group was holding out for a plan where only those Mississippians from both rival groups who sign a party loyalty pledge would be allowed a seat.

The civil rights plank was a carefully balanced statement that "The Civil Rights Act of 1964 deserves and requires full observance by every American and fair, effective enforcement if there is any default."

As the convention got into high gear the only real suspense hung on Johnson's choice of his running mate. And he did nothing to clear up the mystery.</ tainly means acceptance of the platform with little or no debate by the delegates, who open the party's national convention tonight.

The committee is working closely with the White House, and is understood to be heeding a plea by President Johnson to avoid convention floor battles.

The civil rights plank, it was understood, contemplates federal enforcement of the rights guarantees when and if necessary, but also speaks up for law and order in language designed to please critics of recent racialy tinged riots.

Briefs Filed on Gambling Amendment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Supreme Court briefs were filed Thursday claiming that a proposed amendment to legalize gambling in Garland County wasn't presented to the voters squarely.

The brief was filed by attorneys for four taxpayers who seek to prevent Secretary of State Kelly Bryant from certifying the amendment to the November general election ballot.

The suit claims that the ballot title is misleading. The brief said even the most sophisticated voter couldn't understand the scope and effect of the proposal.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett filed a brief with the high court denying all allegations of the plaintiffs.

The court has until Sept. 2 to decide whether to issue the injunction sought by the plaintiffs, ordering the amendment off the ballot.

The taxpayers' brief said that because of "subtle salesmanship" and "sugarcoated terms" in the ballot title, the proposal wasn't presented intelligibly, honestly and impartially as required by law.

It argues that the scope of gambling that would be permitted is not fully outlined and that the proposals provides for drastic revisions in power through the creation of a special gaming control board.

mingled with sun-burned tourists along the storied boardwalk, faced on all sides with stalls of carnival souvenirs of Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy.

As the sun rose, hundreds of red, white and blue bedecked volunteers for LBJ rallied on the ocean front to begin shaping up for their convention duties. Behind the honky tonk glitter the committees worked at shaping the convention and its platform into the broad harmony and unity design Johnson would like.

The word had gone down the line to avoid any explosive fight over a civil rights plank and to settle the controversy over the seating of contested Alabama and Mississippi delegations in a manner calculated to give the least offense to Southerners and the Negro-dominated delegation demanding seats from Mississippi.

Late Sunday night, the platform writers reached preliminary agreement on a call for enforcement of the new Civil Rights Act and on condemnation of political extremist tactics. The credentials committee, headed by former Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania, ruled Alabama delegates would have to sign an oath of loyalty to the national party ticket if they wished to participate in the convention.

Quickly this group, selected under the auspices of segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace, rejected the demand. National Committeeman Eugene (Bull) Connor of Birmingham already had the delegation's convention credentials and declined to surrender them.

A much more difficult decision faced the committee today. It promised to come to grips with the question of seating an all-white 23-vote unpledged delegation from Mississippi or the largely Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic party group. In another section of the civil rights front, the platform committee's executive committee produced a plank pledging "fair and effective enforcement" of the new civil rights law. This was about what the Republicans promised, in different language.

Faubus Meets Class Members

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who stayed away from a White House conference to participate in a class reunion, met the members of his 1934 graduating class here Saturday.

The group graduated from Huntsville State Vocational School. Dr. Irene Coger, who taught Faubus and his classmates English, and Mrs. Margaret Perkins, who taught Faubus to type, attended the reunion. Dr. Coger, now a professor of speech and drama at a Missouri college, said, "All I can remember was that he was determined to get that degree."

Faubus said he was not an outstanding student of English. Some of the group came from as far away as California.

Plaintiffs in the case are Dr. Erwin L. McDonald, Dr. Kenneth L. Teegarden, Dr. Robert C. Malcomb and Mrs. Edgar P. Dixon.

two "We wanted, we put our money down. The owner looked at the magazines and then he gave us a big lecture on how unsuitable the magazines were for decent people. He said they were nothing but trash and he wouldn't want any son of his reading them. He made us feel so cheap, we didn't buy them. We want to ask you, Abby, if those magazines were nothing but "trash" and "unsuitable for decent people" what were they doing in his store in the first place?"

GOOD QUESTION

Dear Good: The question is better than "good." It's excellent. Why don't you go back and ask him?

Dear Abby: I was surprised at your answer disagreeing with the young couple "Willing To Wait," who preferred buying their furniture as they could afford it, instead of using a lot of cast-off junk from their relatives' attics. They should have been commended for their attitude in this day when young couples buy everything on credit.

When my husband and I were married, we moved into an empty apartment with two suitcases. We slept on the floor until we could afford a bed. When so-called well-meaning relatives offered us odd pieces of old furniture, we politely refused. We enjoy our love nest all the more because we built it stick by stick together. Yours truly, GLAD WE WAITED

Dear Glad: I don't know how long you and your husband slept on the floor, but if you were offered a bed and turned it down, it's nothing to brag about. I agree, young marrieds shouldn't go into debt in order to have everything immediately. But to refuse furniture because it is "old" is snobbish and impractical. Some "odd pieces" and cast-off "junk" have been transformed into handsome and useful furniture with a bit of sandpaper, paint and ingenuity.

Dear Abby: I laughed to myself when I read about the bride who said she would rather buy one "good" piece of furniture, as they could afford it, than to set up housekeeping with a lot of "junk" from her relatives' attics. When my husband and we have three healthy, lively youngsters, all under four years of age. We don't have to worry about any of them getting jelly on our $500 living room sofa because we don't have one. Sign me—

Body of Missing

The complaint against Wright was filed Friday with U.S. Commissioner Thelma Williams of Texarkana.

It said Wright "did make and cause to be made a false entry in the records of the State National Bank" which showed the balance on a state clearing account to be $1,927,336.83. The FBI said the correct balance on that date, Aug. 6, should have been $2,171,153.10.

Investigators called Wright, who was on vacation, and said some records supposedly under his control were missing. Wright was asked to come to the bank. He did, talked with the investigators briefly, and asked to be allowed to go home and change from his golf clothes.

He did not return to the bank, the FBI said.

The discrepancy apparently was discovered through routine correspondence between the bank and the Arkansas Legislative Joint Auditing Committee.

Orvel M. Johnson, legislative auditor, said a discrepancy appeared in the correspondence and he wrote to the bank to check on it. The bank verified the discrepancy, Johnson said.

Stuart Wilson, chairman of the bank's board of directors, and W. H. Kelley, president of the bank, said such a discrepancy would be covered by insurance.

One State Woman Has Her Say

By GORDON BROWN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — An Arkansas woman spoke her piece Sunday before the Democratic convention's credentials committee wrestling with the problem of what to do about the Mississippi delegation.

She is Miss Doris McCastlain of Brinkley, a member of the Arkansas State Legislature and a member of the Credentials Committee.

Miss McCastlain said she listened with interest to arguments on whether the regular Democratic delegation from Mississippi or a challenging Negro group should be seated.

"Finally," she said, "I got up and spoke my piece. I said it was my personal opinion that the regular Democrats should be seated, that no member of the Mississippi Freedom Democrats should be seated."

"I do not believe that any group of people can get together and form what they say is the Democratic Party. This is what the Freedom Democrats did in Mississippi. If it can be done in Mississippi, it could be done in any other state. I do not believe this is right."

"I got some cold looks from some of the committee members but I know I am right."

Miss McCastlain, bound by committee rules that members shouldn't discuss proceedings of the committee, said she couldn't divulge what others might have said but that she could state her own views. She did say that a number of motions had been made, although no final decision came from Sunday's lengthy session.

She stepped into the credentials committee situation because Mrs. Jack Carnes, party national committeewoman for Arkansas, was unable to sit in on the sessions because of other business. The National Committee has been having fairly regular meetings, requiring Mrs. Carnes attendance.

Mrs. Carnes, known to most Arkansians as "Gressie," entertained Sunday night at an elaborate reception and buffet dinner.

Cypriot Minister to Conference

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou, flew to Athens today for consultations with the Greek Government.

It was the fourth such journey

ner in the Haddon Hall Hotel, headquarters for the delegation.

At the reception Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., lauded both Mrs. Carnes and Tom Harper, national committeeman, and added:

"With this leadership, I can't imagine the people of Arkansas not supporting the Democrats in November."

The delegation applauded loudly.

Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., attended the reception briefly.

Harper summoned the delegation for its first caucus today, called mainly to distribute convention badges, credentials and tickets.

22 Dynamite Sticks Explode

MEEKER, Colo. (AP) — Twenty-two sticks of dynamite exploded while four men worked on a flatbed truck preparing it for use in casing a northwestern Colorado oil well.

The blast "blew the men to pieces," undersheriff Bob Kracht said.

An oil company representative discovered the bodies Sunday. Kracht said the tragedy may have occurred either Friday or Saturday.

Strewn along the bank of Piceance Creek, 50 miles southwest of Meeker, were the 22 dynamite wrappers.

The man, all from Vernal, Utah, were Charles McConkie, 35, his son Duane, 16, Robert Hatch, 27, and Houtz Ross, 44.

Smugglers Caught

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese authorities said today they had broken a gold smuggling ring and arrested four U.S. Air Force enlisted men and eight Vietnamese.

A U.S. spokesman said all the enlisted men were charged with being couriers for the ring between Hong Kong and Saigon. Their names were withheld.

The place of the bride-elect had beside it an assortment of small kitchen aids, a gift of the hostesses.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Mrs. Don Frederick Roberts

Miss Connie Lynn Matlock and Don Frederick Roberts were joined together in holy wedlock Sunday, August 16, at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist Church in Malvern, Arkansas by the Rev. Harold Presley.

Miss Matlock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dayton Matlock and the groom is the son of Mrs. Anne Barbaree Ward of Hope and Mr. Roy Dee Roberts of Mt. Pleasant, Texas.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of white gladiolus and palm trees flanked by candles and ferns. Mrs. Charles J. Baker, organist, and Miss Annette Reeves, soloist, sang, "O Promise Me" before the ceremony; "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony; and "Whither Thou Goest" at the close of the ceremony.

Candles were lighted by John Matlock, brother of the bride and Len Fowler of Jonesboro, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown was of white satin and imported chantilly lace, with scoop neckline and short sleeves. A fitted bodice with bell-shaped skirt that fell into a chapel train. A crown of chantilly lace and pearls held her finger-tip illusion veil. ciated Press. I feel I'd still like to be a teacher because it's the most inspiring profession I know except motherhood, and I'm not built for that. Anyway, I thought journalism was romantic — and still do, some days."

Hal Boyle was born in Kansas City, Mo. In 1937 he married Mary Frances Young and later adopted a daughter, Tracy Ann.

During World War II, he was a correspondent in the Mediterranean and European areas from which he wrote a daily column, "Leaves from a War Correspondent's Notebook."

Some of his exploits that occurred during the war are still famous today. For example, on the North African front, he "invaded" a small Arab village, throwing candy from his jeep and shouting:

"Vote for Boyle, the son of lo!! Honest Hal the Arab's pal!!"

Along with his sparkling sense of humor, however, he also has a genuine feeling of mankind that has earned him such titles as "the Soldiers' Boswell" and "the Poor Man's Philosopher." For his brilliant reporting he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1945.

I asked, "What type of people do you hate?" Though ready for the worst, I hoped I'd catch him off guard.

He said nothing; but instead, lit a long, black cigar and puffed away as it his thoughts were in some remote island paradise.

Finally, he answered, "I hate people who throw their weight around, who try to rob a man of his dignity. Will Rogers used to say, 'I never met a man I didn't like.' I can't say the same. But I can say I never met a human being I didn't feel sorry for. I think every human in it, at one time or another, has a hard time. The thing I admire most is people who face life with courage, loyalty, and a sense of humor."

"What are your pet fears?"

"My fears? The biggest thing I have to fight is a feeling of insufficiency — that I won't be able to muster the talent to do the work the way I'd like. My greatest fear of all, however, is tomorrow's column."

"What would you like put on your tombstone?" I asked, rising from the chair and picking up my notes.

"I'd like an epitaph saying, 'Gone Home to Rest' with an arrow pointing upward."

I laughed and thanked Boyle for the interview.

We shook hands and I left, feeling in fine spirits.

Jr. Legion Play Starts at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Lewisville, Idaho, showing the best record and the smallest hometown of the field, battles Manchester, N.H., at 2 p.m. today to open the 38th American Legion Baseball World Series.

Lewisville's record is 42-6, compared to Manchester's 21-5. Lewisville has a population of about 18,000.

The second first-round game will be between New Orleans and Waterloo, Iowa, at 7:30 p.m. in Travelers Field, home of the Arkansas Travelers of the Pacific Coast League.

Waterloo's Rich Folkers has the best record among pitchers in the series: 16-0.

Other first-round pairings: Staten Island, N.Y. versus Charlotte, N.C., 2 p.m., Tuesday; Detroit plays Upland, Calif., at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Upland won its four-team league championship this year for the first time in eight years.

Upland has a standout hurler in 6-year-old Rick Konik, who has a 7-0 record, plays first base, and is hitting at a .373 clip.

King of the hitters' percentages is Upland shortstop Dave Shoji (.536), followed by teammate Mike Price (.519). Price also pitches good enough for a 7-1 mark.

Harry Crowley of Staten Island bashed 10 home runs as his team compiled an 18-4 record.

The New Orleans team, which won the region that includes Arkansas, is composed mostly of the same players who won the Louisiana Triple-A high school baseball championship.

Hurricane Continues to Baffle Man

By GENE FLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—When the white man came to the New World, the Indian told him about the tigerish tempest that often sprang unprovoked upon islanders of the tropical Atlantic. They called the storm "huracan."

Christopher Columbus learned first-hand. He was leading his second expedition in 1494 when a hurricane struck the settlement of Isabella on Santo Domingo. Columbus lost eight of his nine ships.

Columbus grew weather-wise, as did the Indians, but eyes and ears were their sole instruments.

Today, man has radar, airplanes and satellites but men still don't know when or where hurricanes will form, although the forerunners are detectable over broad expanses of the hemisphere.

After sticky, humid weather, the easterly winds blow more briskly, the rains fall more frequently. Fishermen note the fish bite more recklessly. They crowd into passes and tidewater streams.

The surf's pulse slows. Long swells slide smoothly ashore six times a minute instead of the normal 10 or 11.

The wind turns north-northeasterly. Gusts rise to 30 or 35 miles an hour. The sea is turbulent. The surf runs wild and clamorous. Brief rain squalls slash and run. The sky darkens.

Then the hurricane strikes.

Gordon E. Dunn, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, said observers will concentrate on trying to obtain data on the formation of hurricanes and studying mature storms to determine their normal variability.

Dunn expects the satellite Nimbus, to be launched Friday, to send back revealing pictures of cloud formations and provide daylight photographs of the equator very 24 hours.

Tiros satellites have provided interesting pictures of clouds and have spotted hurricanes but they were not oriented as Nimbus will be. A weather satellite system is still a year or two away, Dunn said.

The Navy, Air Force and a tonatic buoys keep a check on hurricanes in the Atlantic, Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico. These forces have been beefed up for the 1964 storm season.

The Navy, operating from Jacksonville and Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, again will use Super Constellations. These 70-ton flying laboratories, with crews of 28 to 30 men, can remain aloft for 21 hours. They have been in use since 1958 for low level penetration into the eye of the hurricane as well as for spotting the big storms.

While main hurricane months are August, September and October, these devastating storms have occurred at other times and Cleo is the fourth this season. In June one formed in the Gulf of Mexico, moved across north Florida and into the Atlantic, with winds of 50 to 60 miles per hour.

In late July a storm formed near the Leeward Islands and passed not far from Bermuda. It had winds of hurricane force — 74 miles an hour — for one day and maritime advisories were issued.

The first tropical storm to be given a name this season, Abby, formed quickly in the Gulf of Mexico and moved inland along the middle Texas coast Aug. 7, packing winds up to 60 miles per hour in squalls near the center.

SHORT RIDES

By Frank O'Neal

BRavo BRAND By Nelson C. Nye

THE STORY: The mysterious young woman who wants to talk to Frank Ives, arranges to meet him beyond a bridge at the edge of town. Ives goes to meet her, unsure if it is a trap.

Colorado where a man could thumb his nose at old Sam. Diamond F. held considerable promise. He'd been a fool to let French get away.

With a harsh, twisting grin, Frank Ives got a match from his hat and with a crazy defiance—the last burst, perhaps, of that reckless drive which carried him into this business in the first place—fired up.

Nothing happened. His horse carried him over the bridge and, in the shadow of cedars, Ives stepped down. Leaving his mount on trailing reins he walked over to the shack and pulled open the door.

Nobody home.

She was late. Probably changed her mind.

It was an easy jump in his mind from that to wondering how she supported herself in a place like Terrapin where every second structure was some sort of a deadfall. The burg did not have a millinery, dressmaking or other establishment catering to the needs or vanity of women.

It came over him uneasily she might be some rancher's wife. The plane's of his cheeks, wrapped about that thought, showed some of the hardness which was ground deep into him. The hatred and intolerance that—with this thinly tethered wild streak—had given Frank Ives the scariest name on the border.

Terrapin plainly was an all-night town. Though fainter here, intercepted by wind coming down off the bluffs, its raucous voice could still be heard, caught in snatches of fiddle squeak and laughter, bludgeoning from the glare of lamps that leaked from every crack and crevice and spilled in leonine-dazzling waves from swinging door and open window.

Ives recalled Sam Renwick's warning. "Don't let the sun come up on you here."

Renwick, according to Jerre French, was a man who worked at the thankless job he had pinned on himself. Sam hadn't spoken to hear his head rattle. He would value his self-given authority.

Ives peered across the bridge again, then turned to stare up into the hills. As bronze peeler for French he'd be out of this town yet still close enough to come in if he had to; and near enough, too, if things got too hot, to go splashing across the Perhaps it wasn't beyond mending. He could find the ranch, but would French still want him? Would French care to take on a ranny that would pass up his presence to chin with a girl?

"Latigo. . . ?"

Soft as spider's breath the whisper came to hang disembodied in the starlit dark, pulling taut Ives' muscles, turning him four ways without anything further to show who had spoken. A whisper was like an umbrella, hard to identify and employable to anyone. His fingers itched to lay hold of his gun.

"Over here," the voice said with no more substance than foxfire, "in the trees."

Eyes narrow, and with every trained instinct warning him not to, Ives started for the cedars. The whisper could have come from anywhere, but Ives had had enough horsing around.

If this was a trap it had better be a good one!

The call turned out to have come from the girl. She was right where she'd said she was, but Ives was too keyed up, too crammed with thoughts he'd been left to cool his heels with to dissemble his irritation entirely.

"You certainly took your good natured time," he told her.

"I'm sorry—something came up." She knew he was riled.

"I don't even know what we're talking about."

Her face, in this gloom, was just a pale oval, but he could see the way her chin had come up.

When she continued to stand silent he got hold of himself, enough anyway to say more reasonably. "I don't know your name or—"

She said in a withdrawing, cooler tone: "If you want to back out—"

"I didn't say that."

She came a step nearer, eyes searching his face. He caught the clean woman smell of her, a faint fragrance like poppies. "I didn't come here to bicker—I need help," she cried in a confused, desperate voice.

"But . . . you don't know me from Adam!" Ives peered at her baffled. "You must have

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—CBS had a sort of sneak preview Sunday of its new team of convention anchormen, Robert Trout and Roger Mudd.

The "break-in performance," as Trout called it, came from a booth overlooking the auditorium where the Democratic National Convention opens tonight.

Trout was correct in using a show business term, "performance," because television coverage is closely related to show business and its personalities, to actor.

But the two leads who have succeeded Walter Cronkite in the network's news troupe cannot be evaluated on the basis of Sunday evening's appearances. They merely presided over a news program and there was really no chance to see either in ad lib operation.

However, Trout, a silken-voiced man whose saturnine face belies a quietly droll manner, seems slated to handle the lighter side of convention goings-on. Mudd, good-looking and on the serious, incisive side, seems happier with hard-news approach.

There are about two broad-casting employes working on the convention for every five delegates, and it seemed that all of them were busy Sunday. A viewer could have kept his eyes almost constantly on either the Convention Hall or the Atlantic City boardwalk from noon until bedtime.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota who seems to be everybody's choice for the vice presidential nomination, popped up on the screen almost as often as the commercials.

He was first on ABC's "Discovery" program, followed with a "Meet the Press" quizzing and was scheduled to turn up again on ABC's convention preview, although I missed that. He fielded all questions neatly, praising his party, his president and explaining his philosophy.

With only a few subjects of any real suspense—the President's choice of a vice presidential candidate, and the seating of two Southern delegations—all networks were put to a test friends—

"I can't go to them. It's why I asked you to come here. Don't you see? That's the whole nub of it! If they even suspected. . ."

B. Robinson Going Great for Baltimore

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's odd, but Brooks Robinson is at his best in even-numbered years.

This year he's better than ever and has a better than even chance of being named the American League's most valuable player — if Baltimore wins the pennant.

Robinson tried to see to that, sparking the Orioles to three victories in four weekend games with Chicago. Baltimore won their third straight 7-3 Sunday before the White Sox salvaged the second game of the doubleheader 3-1.

The split left the Orioles 1½ games ahead of the White Sox, who led by one-half game before the series started.

Robinson lashed three hits in Sunday's opener, scoring two runs, and drove in the Orioles' lone run in the second game. In the previous two games, Robinson knocked in two runs in Friday's 4-2 triumph and slammed a three-run homer that won Saturday's game by the same score.

His over-all performance, eight hits in 16 times at bat, increased the 27-year-old third baseman's batting average seven points to .308, his home run total to 22 and his runs batted in to 85.

Robinson reached his best RBI mark in 1960 when he drove in 88 runs. He dipped to 61 the next season but rose to 86 in 1962.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL Amendment No. 52 (Legislative)

That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and upon being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Representatives and Senators, if a majority of the electors voting thereon, at such an election, adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas to wit:

SECTION 1. The General Assembly shall have the power to provide by general laws for the establishment and operation (a) of industrial districts for the purpose of securing and developing industry, and (b) of hospital districts for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, reconstructing or extending hospitals. The land boundaries of the respective said districts shall be fixed in the manner provided by the General Assembly.

SECTION 2. The said districts shall have such powers pertaining to the respective purposes aforesaid and may exercise the same in such manner as shall be provided by the General Assembly, including without limitation power to issue bonds and to levy taxes upon the taxable real and personal property in said districts, upon approval thereof by a majority of the qualified electors of said district voting thereon at an election called for such purpose. Provided, however, there shall never be levied a tax on the taxable real and personal property; (a) of any industrial district which, together with any tax levied under the provisions of Amendment No. 49 to the Constitution, shall exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof; or (b) of any hospital district, which, together with any tax levied under the provisions of Amendment No. 17 to the Constitution, shall exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof, except that, the full said five (5) mills being levied under Amendment No. 17, the said hospital district may levy an additional tax of not to exceed one (1) mill on the dollar of the assessed valuation of the taxable real and personal property in said hospital district. Provided further, that the total taxes levied under this Amendment and under Amendment No. 49 to the Constitution on the taxable real and personal property in any industrial district shall never exceed five (5) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof, and the total taxes levied under this Amendment and under Amendment No. 17 to the Constitution on the taxable real and personal property in any hospital district shall never exceed six (6) mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation thereof.

SECTION 3. To such extent and in such manner as the General Assembly may provide, taxes collected under Amendment No. 32 to the Constitution on the taxable real and personal property in any hospital district shall be used for maintaining, operating and supporting district hospitals.

SECTION 4. The provisions hereof shall be construed as supplemental to all constitutional provisions and legislative acts relating to the subject matters of this Amendment.

1962 when he also hit 23 homers and batted .303, his best marks in those categories prior to this season.

But the odds struck again as he plummeted to a .251 average last year with only 11 homers and 67 RBI.

In other AL games Sunday, New York edged Boston 4-3, Cleveland took Los Angeles 6-4 and 3-2, Washington lost to Kansas City 3-1 before winning 8-5 and Minnesota nipped Detroit 6-5, then lost 5-2.

In the National League, Philadelphia tramped Pittsburgh 3-3, Los Angeles nipped Cincinnati 1-0, San Francisco trimmed St. Louis 3-2 in 10 innings, New York swept Chicago 2-1 in 10 and 5-4 and Houston defeated Milwaukee 7-1.

One of Robinson's three hits in the opener was a key single in the Orioles' four-run outburst in the fifth inning. It was another Robinson, Earl, who singled in two of the runs. The rally helped rookie Wally Bunker to his 13th victory against only three defeats.

Gary Peters pitched the White Sox to the second - game triumph, scattering seven hits for his 14th victory in 21 decisions. Chicago scored all of their runs in the seventh. Floyd Robinson triggered the rally with a single and eventually scored on a wild throw by Sam Bowens.

Johnny Blanchard and Mickey Mantle each drove in two runs as the Yankees continued their recovery from a six-game losing streak. Blanchard brought in Roger Maris with sacrifice flies in the sixth and in the eighth while Mantle unloaded a two-run homer in the third.

Bob Tilton doubled and scored for Boston in the seventh and homered in the ninth.

Cleveland swept its second straight doubleheader from the Angels. Rookie Luis Tiant pitched a six-hitter for his seventh victory in nine decisions in the opener. Bob Chance belted three hits and drove in two runs for the Indians.

John Romano singled across two runs in Cleveland's three-run third in the nightcap. The rally was aided by pitcher Dan Osinski's throwing error. Felix Torres homered for the Angels.

Willie Kirkland led the Senators to their second game victory over the Athletics, lashing a four-run single in a five-run fourth inning and slamming a solo homer in the seventh.

John Wyatt preserved Diego Segui's victory in the first game, striking out pinch hitters Don Zimmer and Chuck Hinton with the tying runs on base in the ninth inning. Bill Bryan homered for the Athletics' decisive run in a two-run fifth.

Hank Aguirre won his third game of the season and his first since July 1, stopping the Twins on five hits in the second game. Bill Freehan hit two homers and Gates Brown and Don Demeter one each for the Tigers.

Tony Oliva's run-scoring single in the ninth inning won the opener for the Twins after Don Mincher tied the game in the eighth with a grand slam homer. Jerry Lumpe and Dick McAdulf clouted two-run homers for Detroit.

Venturi Is Victorious in American

By JOE MOOSHIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ken Venturi's smashing five-stroke victory in the $50,000 American Golf Classic Sunday was doubly satisfying to golf's comeback king of 1964.

In addition to a $7,500 check, which boosted the national champion's earnings to $53,840, the triumph assured Venturi that his U.S. Open victory was no fluke.

The Classic was a big hurdle for Venturi. He missed the 54-hole cut in 1962 and last year he picked up a $110 check. But the long 7,165-yard Firestone Course finally yielded to him. His victory over Mason Rudolph came on a final round of 35-34-69 and a 275 total—one stroke better than the four-round record of 276 set by Arnold Palmer in 1962 and tied by Johnny Pott last year.

Venturi's only bogey Sunday came on the 18th and final hole. He started the round with a two-stroke lead over Rudolph. He boosted it to four strokes as he put together 11 straight pars and clinched the victory with a birdie two on the 12th hole while Rudolph was getting a bogey.

In a run for second place Rudolph with a 37-35-72 and 280 finished one stroke ahead of Palmer, who had 35-34-69 and 281.

Jack Nicklaus shot a final 37-67-73 to finish fourth with 285.

Allen's Homers Help Phillies Maintain Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Richie Allen, Philadelphia's hard-hitting third baseman, wears orange shoes, four-button suits and sports jackets with buckles in the back.

Now he's trying to stick a couple of feathers in his cap.

A leading contender for both Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player honors, the stand-out dresser and outstanding third baseman belted two homers and a single, driving in four runs Sunday as the National League leading Phillies walloped Pittsburgh 9-3.

The performance lifted Allen's batting average to .313, gave him 23 homers and 66 runs batted in, and once again shot him front and center as a distinct possibility to become the first rookie in major league history to win the MVP award.

Allen, whose chief competition for MVP honors might come from teammates John (All-Star Hero) Callison and Jim (Perfect Game) Bunning, hit a two-run homer against the Pirates in the third inning, hit a solo homer in the fifth and singled home a run in the eighth.

Bunning, who went seven innings, benefited from the support, bringing his record to 14-4 with a 2.17 earned run average despite being tagged for homers by Roberto Clemente and Donn Clemençon.

The win boosted the Phillies lead to 7½ games over Cincinnati and San Francisco. The Reds lost to the Los Angeles Dodgers and Phil Ortega's three-hitter 1-0 while the Giants edged St. Louis 3-2 in 10 innings.

In other games, the New York Mets swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings and 5-4 and Houston beat Milwaukee 7-1 in a night game.

American League-leading Baltimore split with Chicago, winning 7-3 before the White Sox took the nightcap 3-1. The third-place New York Yankees edged Boston 4-3, Cleveland took two from the Los Angeles Angels 6-4 and 3-2, Minnesota nipped Detroit 6-5 before losing the second game 5-2 and Washington defeated Kansas City 8-5 after losing the opener 3-1.

Ortega, who hadn't pitched a complete game since May 19 brought his record to 6-5 by keeping the Reds in check. The Dodgers, meanwhile, scored their only run against Jim O'Toole, 1-3, in the second inning on a double by Nate Oliver and Dick Tracawski's single.

The Cardinals pulled into a tie with the Giants on Lou Brock's homer in the eighth but lost it in the 10th when Jesus Alou scored from first on Dal Maxville's error.

Alou started the inning with a single, moved up on a bunt, raced to third on Tom Haller's long fly and scored when Maxville let Harvey Kuenn's ground-er get away from him.

The Mets won the opener in the 10th after George Altman led off with a double and took third on a grounder. Ron Hunt and Joe Christopher then were walked intentionally, setting up a force at any base, but Ed Kranepool ruined the strategy with a well-placed single to left.

The Cubs tried the same thing in the ninth inning of the nightcap and again lost while the Mets won their seventh in eighth games. Bobby Klaus singled and wound up on third with one out. Christopher and Altman were walked purposely, but one out later, Charlie Smith singled in the clincher.

Larsen, who hadn't pitched a complete game since July 2, 1959 when he was with the New York Yankees, allowed the Braves only five hits and retired 18 batters in a row at one stretch as the Colts scored their third straight over the Braves.
